Food trend

Brasian Brilliance!

Get on trend and turn up the heat on your with the best of British-Asian fusion.

British-Asian fusion is taking the UK dining scene by storm, blending the best of familiar British formats with bold, exciting Asian flavours. From pubs to fine dining, chefs are reimagining classics like pies, burgers, and even Sunday roasts with global twists, creating dishes that feel both adventurous and comforting.

So why not spice your menu up this spring by embracing this trend? British-Asian fusion is a perfect fit for indulgent set menus that stand out. The appeal of this trend lies in its versatility.

For diners, it's a chance to explore new flavours in a format they already know and love - a low-risk way to try something different. For chefs and operators, it's an opportunity to elevate menus, introduce innovation, and command premium price points without alienating customers.

With 42% of UK consumers saying they love the idea of mixing cultural influences into familiar dishes, now is the time to experiment. Whether it's using Asian-inspired marinades for British proteins or adding zingy slaws and spiced sauces to classic formats, there's no shortage of ways to bring this trend to life. Not only will it make your offering stand out, but it'll also give your diners an unforgettable experience - one that's as exciting as it is delicious.

Made for sharing our Crispy bubble prawns make a great starter but add a bit of asian magic with a refreshing mango-avocado salsa. Mix a fruit with mint, chilli, and a tangy dipping sauce, to tantalise the taste buds.

Staff skills EIGHT WAYS TO SELL MORE DESSERTS

Dessert up-selling is a crucial skill for front-of-house staff to boost restaurant profits and enhance the dining experience. Here are eight sure-fire ways to encourage dessert orders:

Mention desserts early

Start by mentioning desserts early in the meal, perhaps when taking drink orders. This plants the seed for later.

Use enticing language

Instead of simply listing items, paint a picture with words. For example, "our chocolate lava cake features a warm, gooey centre that oozes rich Belgian chocolate."

Encourage pre-orders

For time-consuming desserts like soufflés, suggest pre-ordering to ensure availability.

Staff favourites

Personalize the experience by sharing your own favourites or popular choices. "Our sticky toffee pudding is a local favourite - we can barely keep it in stock!"

Dessert and drink pairings

A suggested port or dessert wine can increase the overall bill while enhancing the customer's experience.

Limited availability

Create a sense of scarcity by mentioning limited quantities. "We only make a few of our special lemon meringue pies each day, and they usually sell out quickly."

Sharing options

Or those watching their intake. Suggest a dessert platter or sampler for the table to try multiple options.

Lighter options

For health-conscious diners, highlight lighter options or fruit-based desserts. "Our mixed berry Pavlova is a refreshing way to end your meal."

Holdther.

MOTHERING SUNDAY, 30th MARCH

Get ready for one of the biggest days of the year and make the most of simple to serve, desserts that will simply fly out of the kitchen.

Mother's Day is a huge opportunity to boost profits and enhance your local reputation. It's always been one of the busiest days for restaurants, pubs, and cafes, with retail spending projected to have reached £1.28 billion in 2023. The numbers speak volumes: OpenTable reported a 53% increase in Mother's Day reservations in 2022 compared to pre-pandemic levels in 2019. For mums, it's the ultimate cheat day - a time to indulge, with sumptuous desserts taking centre stage. Enhancing your dessert menu doesn't have to complicate your kitchen operations. Many of our desserts are simple thaw-andserve products, with some even pre-sliced for accurate portion control. We've compiled a list of our (and our mums') favourites, all available online. These desserts are your ticket to impressing customers and streamlining service on this crucial day. Ready to sweeten your Mother's Day offerings? Start here.

Purple Pineapple Think... Sandwich outside the box t's no surprise that creating successful menus is about the quality of ingredients, and the key to cost-effective menus is down to the versatility those ingredients give you in the kitchen. Purple Pineapple gives you both. Our range of fresh fillings is handmade, meaning they keep more delicate ingredients intact and look more homemade. They are also made using heat-stable ingredients, so you can experiment with them beyond the sandwich. Because they are made with fresh ingredients daily, every batch will be as fresh as if you made it yourself, and it will give you a shelf life you'd find hard to find anywhere else. Here are three alternative ideas to kick-start your imagination with these fantastic fillings.

Making plant based easy

The plant-based movement is truly transforming the UK hospitality scene, making vegan and vegetarian choices essential for pubs and restaurants. Recent statistics reveal just how significant this change is—between 2023 and 2024, the number of vegans in the UK jumped by around 1.1 million, totalling about 2.5 million people, which is 4.7% of the adult population! This shift is especially strong among younger generations, with over half of Generation Z (52%) expected to embrace a meat-free diet in 2025.

Here is a small selection of ready to use plantbased products that will help you tap into this trend. For the full range visit kff.co.uk

Our suppliers Speciality Breads Kent

The bakery's commitment to British farming is evident. From Red Tractor Assured wheat flour to rapeseed oil from nearby Kentish Oils, Speciality Breads is a champion of both local British producers.

They are the only baker in the UK to boast Red Tractor certification, meaning every ingredient meets the highest standards and is traceable from field to cooling rack. Moreover, by partnering with Wildfarmed, they use flour grown through regenerative farming practices.

They also committed to using plantbased ingredients wherever possible and creating allergen-free options of all customer's favourites to help chefs cater for wider audiences.

Of course, it all comes down to taste, which is what their product excels at. Each loaf is crafted using traditional techniques and superior ingredients, resulting in breads that elevate dining experiences and set the tone for exceptional meals.

Showcasing bread of this provenance and quality will show your restaurant's commitment to local craftsmanship and can significantly boost customers' perceptions of your food offering.

With over a hundred bakery products, from classic brioche burger buns to innovative creations like the crumpet loaf, there's something to suit every meal occasion. And you know when you order Speciality Bread from KFF, you are not just choosing exceptional baking; you're helping them craft a better future, one loaf at a time.

Lighter lunches

The start of British Summer Time on Sunday, 31 March 2024, heralds more than just longer days; it marks a transformation in customer dining habits and expectations that savvy pubs and restaurants can use to help boost bottom lines.

It's well known that warmer weather and extended daylight bring a boom in outdoor dining. Pubs with beer gardens and restaurants with al fresco seating become hotspots, with transaction values rising by almost 10% during sunny spells.

But with or without outside space, you can still adapt your menus to reflect the season. And what better way than featuring lighter, fresher dishes that appeal to summer appetites? Salads, grilled food, and chilled desserts all gain in popularity as the weather warms. So, with this in mind, here's a simple set menu idea that will satisfy customers' cravings for refreshing meals and showcase seasonal British produce.

Acqua Pazza with Halibut

A spring-inspired dish of pan-fried halibut with seasonal fennel, cherry tomatoes, and spring onions. Steamed mussels in white wine sauce add a light, coastal touch. Served with griddled garlic ciabatta.

Chef's Skills How to fillet Seabass

Learn from master fishmongers how to fillet a Seabass. Don't have the time? Why not get them to do it for you?

the belly.

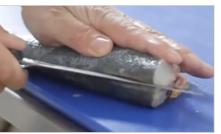

1. Take a sharp filleting knife make a cut around the collar, on both sides and remove the head.

2. Pressing down on the belly of the seabass make a nick in the tail end of

3. Using the nick as a starting point make a single clean cut from tail to head to release the belly.

5. Using the spine as a guide go from head to tail in one easy cut.

7. Turn the Seabass over and repeat the process lifting the fillet away from the ribs and releasing the tail.

6. Release the ribs and the tail by stroking the knife firmly over the ribs and holding the fillet in the other hand.

8. The result? Two tasty skin-on Seabass fillets ready for cooking.

4. With the tip of the knife remove the guts and discard remembering to wipe the board clean afterwards.

As the seasons change, now's the time to give your kitchen a thorough spring clean and decluttering.

An annual deep clean is an excellent base for an ongoing cleaning schedule, maintains equipment efficiency, and keeps you on top of health regulations. A well-organised kitchen improves workflow, reduces waste and boosts productivity.

Decluttering and organisation are key. Start by assessing inventory to ensure all items are accounted for and are in date. Implement the "first in, first out" method to rotate stock and prevent waste. Inventory management software is a helpful way to streamline the process.

Clear, stackable containers for dry goods are a good investment. They maximise vertical space and help you see what you've got. Magnetic wall strips do a great job of holding metal utensils and freeing up acres of drawer space. If you have the budget, consider installing pull-out organisers in deep cabinets to make items more accessible.

Also, don't overlook a well-designed labelling system. Use clear labels that include the item name, date of storage, and expiration date. If you're technically minded, using QR codes that link to recipes or usage instructions for speciality ingredients will save oodles of time.

Lastly, items should be organised ergonomically by storing frequently used items at eye level and within easy reach. Group similar items together to create intuitive work zones. It's a big job, but as the season picks up, your future self will thank you for making a space and working environment that is safe, easy to clean and a pleasure to work in.

Daily tasks

of things:

- Clean and sanitise all food preparation surfaces.
- and glassware.
- empty grease traps.
- Sweep and mop floors, wipe down walls, sinks, taps and splash backs.
- Empty bins; disinfect waste disposal areas.

Monthly

Deep cleaning of less frequently used or hard-to-reach areas:

- to remove grease build-up.
 - clean freezer interiors.
 - Calibrate ovens and
 - Clean refrigerator coils to improve efficiency.
 - Wash ceilings and walls to remove grease or dust build-up.

Your daily routine to keep on top

- Wash and sanitize all utensils,
- Clean grills, griddle, fryers and

- Wash behind ovens, stoves, fryers
- Empty and sanitise ice machines;
- thermometers; sharpen knives.

Weekly tasks

Focus on deeper cleaning to address areas prone to build-up:

- Sanitise refrigerators, coolers, and ovens (including racks).
- Boil out deep fryers and clean grease traps thoroughly.
- Delime sinks, tap heads, and coffee machines.
- Clean walls, baseboards, light fixtures, and ceiling fans as needed.
- Use drain cleaner on floor drains to prevent clogs.
- Dust shelves in storage areas.

Annual

Annual tasks ensure long-term maintenance of the kitchen:

- Conduct a professional deep clean of exhaust hoods and vents to remove grease build up.
- Inspect and service major appliances (refrigerators, ovens) for wear or inefficiency.
- ♦ Repaint or reseal walls if necessary.
- Conduct a thorough review of food safety protocols with staff.
